NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to The Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

E. S. Hebbard was the subject of last week's "Guess Who's Here" contest, the winner being Grace F. Gessell.

He sings so much and so well that his might be called a vocal personality. He has a full rich voice, and he sings with smiling eyes that seem to take you into his confidence. He's there with that rag stuff, and he's the only living devotee of the terpsichorean art capable of introducing a modicum of genuine rhythm into the bear cat steps employed to embellish most of the popular airs of the day. He's really built for something a little heavier, however. His rag music impresses one as the result of an education, but the richer and more wholesome ballads, and the classical productions, are his by spontaneous right. The slap-stick harmony with him is an acquisition, music an inheritance. He's one of the best fellows on earth without doing any of the numerous things presumably essential to good fellowship, excepting just being a good fellow. And he's all that in that mannish sort of a manly way that is devoid of the goody-goody mamma's boy effeminacy of which men's only criticism is that it makes them sick. He's not new in La Crosse—he's been here a long while, and yet were you to say he's not New you'd be as deep in the mud as you'd be in the mire. He is subject to thoughtful spells which lead some of his friends to suspect that he's afflicted with temperament, but our private suspicion is that he's engaged. At any rate, he knows the philosophy of love, and a lot of La Crosse girls are aware that he translates that philosophy to be, in the words of the poet, "If you give all your lovings to some other girl, You can't expect kisses from me."

It was during Dogdays. That is, it was during the dog show at the Interstate fair, and Dr. Harry Dell, government veterinary expert at Langdon & Boyd's packing house, is always out on parade during the dog show, for that is the event de luxe in his schedule of current history. Dr. E. J. Calph of St. Paul, dropped down here to officiate in Dr. Dell's place, and it all happened because there was a new copper on the beat. Dr. Smith is a rather clever looking individual, a careful dresser and of general "slick" appearance. Dr. Dell was on his way to the dog show when he met the new copper, and of course the doctor knew he was new. So he accosted the man in "invisible blue" and, pointing to a dapper young man across the street, said: "See that guy over there? I've reason to believe he's one of the slickest crooks in the northwest. Better keep an eye on him." "Watch me!" said the officer, who didn't know Dr. Dell. And with chest out and trouble in his eye the big fellow charged across the street. "Give an account of yourself!" demanded the policeman, shaking his club in the face of the astonished pedestrian. "Go to h—!" said that person, beligerently. "Resistin' an officer, are ye?" roared the cop. "I'll be after taking you to the station so you can tell the chief where to head in." Dr. Dell had strolled around the block, and was approaching the couple unobserved. The stranger had thought better of it, and was trying to explain. "Ask Dr. Dell about me," he said. "Don't know him. Come again," said the officer. "You don't know Dr. Dell? Why he's the — Say, here he is now. The stranger's face lit up with joy as he espied the doctor approaching. "How dare you, officer!" shouted Dr. Dell. "That man is Dr. Calph of St. Paul, a United States official. You let him go at once, or I'll take this up with Chief Webber." The astonished officer's jaw dropped in amazement. He looked from one man to the other and slowly a great grin spread over his features. Then he said (and that is why the officer's name isn't given): "I'll buy!"

WILSON GUARD BIG WHILE IN CHICAGO

President-elect More Carefully Protected Than Any Other Visitor

WANT GOVERNOR TO INTERFERE

Attempt to Get Him to Take Hand in Senatorial Deadlock to Fail

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson arrived here at 1:40 this afternoon to be Chicago's guest for a day. His entry into the city was quiet. He got off the train at Englewood, an outlying station, where he was met by a reception committee composed of members of the Commercial club.

The president-elect entered a closed automobile and was driven to the home of David B. Jones, a college mate at Princeton. He will remain there until he goes to the banquet of the Commercial club tonight.

Has Heavy Guard No presidential visitor in years has received the heavy police guard that was thrown around Governor Wilson on his arrival. Profiting by the experience of Colonel Roosevelt in Milwaukee, the police sent out an unusually large squad. There were twenty-five secret service men, twenty-five policemen and twenty-five mounted officers.

A police line was formed around the depot and nobody except those having official business was admitted. Efforts will be made to get Wilson to interfere in the legislative deadlock at Springfield, but it has been said in advance that he will refuse to do so.

Before the banquet of the Commercial club Wilson held an informal reception for the club's reception committee at the Jones residence.

BOARD WRANGLE BOBS UP AGAIN

Torrance Introduces Resolution Curtailing Power of Supervision on Construction Work

CAR SPEED ORDINANCE PASSED

Big Paving Program Is Outlined in Order for Estimates on Next Year's Work

The board of public works standing controversy made its appearance in the regular meeting of the common council meeting last night on schedule time and although the city engineer's estimate on the Ole Swennes paving contract was submitted and adopted with the careful exclusion of the fifty dollar manhole which disrupted the harmony of the council, the dying embers of the quarrel were again fanned into a flame by a resolution introduced by Alderman William Torrance. The resolution in effect takes the supervision of the installation of the new water plant from the board of public works and gives it to the engineers in charge of the work, by placing the appointment of inspectors in the hands of the engineers rather than the board as provided by the charter. The introduction of the resolution was the signal for indignant protest by Fred Schnell, secretary of the board, who declared that the power of appointing inspectors for any public works is vested in the board by the city charter.

Day Favors Plan President of the Board James Day said that he was in favor of giving the engineers the right to appoint their own inspectors. The resolution was referred to the special water committee and it is expected that a bitter fight will develop over the question of the board's rights.

An order for $1874 was drawn in favor of Ole Swennes on his Denton street contract although the mooted manhole question is still unsettled. Alderman Bert Smith, in offering a resolution reducing the assessment of the Casino Theater on personal property from $5,000 to $1,000 criticized the work of the assessors saying that they were unjust in their assessment of the various theaters of the city. He said that the city loses considerable money by being forced to refund taxes assessed too high through their carelessness or mistake.

The dispute between the board of public works and Joseph Fiebig, contractor, over the La Crescent highway hauling contract was settled by allowing the contractor $100 more than the board was willing to pay. The "strap hanger" ordinance introduced by Alderman P. W. Mahoney to compel the street car company to furnish all their cars with more straps was referred to the committee on ordinance which the ordinance limiting the speed of street cars to twenty miles an hour in the city limits and making the motorman exceeding this speed liable to a fine of from $1 to $10 for first offense and from $1 to $50 for second offense was given its third reading and passed. It was argued that the street car crews in their anxiety to com-

GERMANY FEARS ROUMANIA CRISIS

Reassuring Messages from England Fail to Silence the Rumors of War

RUSSIA IS BACKING BULGARIA

Austria-Hungary Said to Support Roumania and Clash of Powers Is Feared

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—Despite the optimistic dispatches emanating from London, belittling the Roumanian-Bulgarian territorial imbroglio, the Germans today believed the situation to be most acute. It was feared that the Balkan situation now seriously menaced the peace of Europe.

Dispatches from Vienna, Sofia and Bucharest said that the Roumanian question completely overshadowed the Turkish war in the public mind. It was said that Austria-Hungary, instead of demobilizing her troops, was calling to colors more reservists. The dual monarchy, it was said, was in sympathy with Roumania, and this was disquieting because it was known that Russia would back Bulgaria.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The Turkish-Balkan negotiations and the Roumanian-Bulgarian controversy were at a standstill today and nothing was expected to develop before Monday. There was no session of the ambassadors, who adjourned last night until Monday morning and that no move in the peace conference was anticipated. Dr. Daneff, the Bulgarian plenipotentiary, went to Oxford for the day.

Before leaving town Dr. Daneff explained that the negotiations conducted by him and the Roumanian envoys were adjourned until Monday. The Bulgarian admitted that the situation was grave but insisted that the conference was amicable and that a satisfactory settlement confidently was expected.

Dispatches from Constantinople said that the ambassadors of the great powers there had finally succeeded in drawing up a note to be presented to the Porte. It was characterized as "colorless" by the correspondents. The note merely advised Turkey to give up Adrianople and mentioned no alternative.

TELLS CONGRESS CANNERY HORRORS

Astounds House Committee in Telling Story to Get Probe Authorized

MOST OF THE EMPLOYEES DISEASED

Charges that a Large Percentage Had Virulent Skin Affections

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A vivid description of revolting conditions existing among the workers in many New York state canneries was given the house committee on rules today by Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, daughter of the poet.

She urged passage of the Allen resolution for a probe into the canning industry. Miss O'Reilly, who for over a month worked in the camps with the "canning herd," and who precipitated an investigation by the New York legislature, "reinforced" her tale of horror with photographs of diseased men, women and children at work in the factories.

So impressed was the committee with the facts as outlined to them, that it ordered further hearings on the matter. It will call F. C. Pruett, deputy labor commissioner of New York, who aided Miss O'Reilly. The witness charged that in practically everyone of the ten camps she visited, she found a large percentage of the employees afflicted with virulent eye, skin or scalp diseases. All were housed in shacks of unsanitary description, she said. The "shacks" were over-run with rats, swarms of flies and disease breeding insects. In but few cases were any provisions made for bathing or drinking.

WALKS OUT OF PRISON

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Jan. 11.—Herbert Repsold, "the perfumed burglar," son of a wealthy San Francisco wine merchant, is being sought by sixty armed men in automobiles. He escaped from the San Quentin prison last night by walking out of the front door wearing prison Director Dan Duffy's overcoat.

POSTPONES SALE AGAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Decision in the sale of the Illinois properties of the Chicago & Milwaukee Electric railroad was today postponed until Tuesday morning by Federal Judge Landis because of the absence of some of the attorneys in the case.

WOMAN PASSES LIE IN INDIAN HEARING

Tells Secretary of Interior Fisher and Senator Dixon They Tell Untruths

WANTS PROBE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

Declares Crows in Montana Are Abused and Swindled Out of Lands

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Secretary of the Interior Fisher and Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray clashed before the senate Indian affairs committee today and several times the lie was passed.

Mrs. Gray sought support for the resolution authorizing a congressional investigation into alleged abuses on the Crow reservation in Montana.

"Secretary Fisher, you know that's true; that you will be connected with one of the biggest land steals in the history of the country," Mrs. Gray interjected, incoherently, at one stage of the hearing.

Fisher jumped to his feet, red with anger, but was appealed to by Chairman Clark to consider "the infirmities" of the witness. He sat down. Mrs. Gray also accused Senator Dixon of Montana of "telling untruths" when he disputed her statement that two Indians had been murdered after interfering with land speculators and contractors.

Among other allegations by Mrs. Gray were the carrying of dead Indians upon allotment rolls and the sale of their land for graft, the torture of Indian children in schools to force their parents to consent to allotment swindles, the substitution of bogus heirs for real heirs who refused to disclaim of allotments and the commitments of fraud in irrigation works on the reservation.

FILE POLICE CHARGES

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Charges against the president and vice president of the United police, the organization of Chicago policemen and two other members were filed today with the civil service commission. The charges specify conduct unbecoming an officer, violation of police regulations against political activity and collection of a fund to influence legislation. The civil service commission's probe grew out of the alleged raising of a $65,000 slush fund for bribing aldermen to pass a bill raising police salaries.

ASKS EARLY HEARING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Early hearing on the charges against Federal Judges Pollock and Van Valkenburgh, and their possible impeachment, if the alleged offenses are proven will be urged on the house judiciary committee by Representatives Borland and Boober of Missouri, and Murdock, Jackson and Neely of Kansas. Borland said today that probably several city officials of Kansas City will be here to testify. The charges grew out of litigation in which the gas companies were involved.

CASTRO REFUSED BAIL

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Cipriano Castro's hopes that he would be allowed to ramble among the white lights of Broadway pending the decision of the special board of inquiry at Ellis Island as to his fitness to pay a protracted visit to these shores were dashed today when Judge Holt of the federal circuit court, refused to admit the former president of Venezuela to bail. The peppy general must bide on the island until the board reaches a decision.

TO FIGHT CONFIRMATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Senator Poindexter of Washington on Tuesday will lay before the senate judiciary committee protests filed by Washington citizens against the confirmation of Clinton L. Howard as a federal judge. Poindexter has a large number of letters and petitions alleging that Howard is unduly friendly to public service corporations.

$100,000 IS PAID ON STREET RAIL COMPANY OYTION

Bondholders' Committee of Water Power Company to Take Charge on January 15

CONTINUE SAME MANAGEMENT

Will Not Change Officials Until After Merger Is Completed if Then

PLANS ARE FILED AT MADISON

Smith Says the Committee Will Adopt Any Other Plan of Reorganization Found Better

The first payment on the Water Power company bondholders committee option on the La Crosse Street Railway company properties was made late today by Clement C. Smith, of Milwaukee, receiver of the water power company. Today's payment was $100,000 and was made to the officers of the street car company. The contract was signed by Chairman Fred Vogel, Jr., Frank O. Wetmore and Harrison B. Riley of the power company committee and it was announced that the other payments would be made and the power company committee will take control of the street car company January 15, the date when the option expires. It was not announced today what the purchase price of the street car company was.

According to a statement by Clement C. Smith today the money for the first payment on the option was advanced by the members of the committee.

"There will be no change in the management of the street car company's affairs," said Mr. Smith, "at least for the present. Of course the merged properties will be under one management when the reorganization plan is perfected and we do not know just how each property will be handled but the present directors and officials will remain in authority until the merger is completed."

"The plan of reorganization has been filed at Madison and the railroad commission has been asked to issue the stocks and bonds. It will be necessary to raise $1,840,000 in cash to get the new organization under way. Thirty per cent of the bondholders have subscribed for the new stocks and bonds and the Halsey company of Chicago has agreed to take up $1,190,000 worth of the bonds."

Speaking of the other plans of organization which have been offered by the Henry L. Doherty company of New York and the Corkill company of Chicago, Mr. Smith declared that all of the bondholders at the meeting called by the Corkill company in Chicago last week, the vote was unanimous in favor of the adoption of the committee's plan of reorganization.

"The committee declined to accept the first plan submitted by the Doherty company," he said, "but if the company or any other company is able to submit a plan better than that advanced by the committee, the committee will not hesitate to adopt it. It is the committee's desire to do everything in their power to benefit the bondholders and the plan worked out by the committee up to date has seemed the most efficient and feasible."

Mr. Smith declared that the indebtedness of the three properties in the proposed company will be no scaled down by the merger that any two can carry the other in case it suffers a setback.

HIS MIND IS ATTACKED

"BIG TIM" SULLIVAN OF TAMMANY HALL FAME TO SPEND BALANCE OF LIFE IN A SANITARIUM

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—A pall of sadness lowered upon the Bowery today when it became known that Timothy D. Sullivan, affectionately hailed by the many thousands in that polyglot population as "Big Tim," had entered finally upon a living death in a sanitarium.

The same malady that brought the death of "Little Tim" Sullivan, the "Big Fellow's" nephew, and most beloved companion, has taken an inexorable grip on the mind of this most picturesque and powerful figure in the modern development of city politics. How long it will be before the disease completes its work cannot be told. It may be a month, it may take years.

Governor Sulzer in due time will direct a special election for a representative to succeed Sullivan.

Method of Bleaching Ivory.

To bleach ivory ornaments or piano keys the following method works well. The ornaments are first washed or "soaked," if possible, in a bath of unslaked lime, which has in it a few ounces of bran and water. This should make a pasty solution if properly mixed, and will bleach the ivory which is discolored or stained. It should be rubbed off with a cloth and the ivory dried in magnesia powder. After a few minutes a few strokes with a cloth gives the ivory a brilliant polish.

Ocean Denizens.

According to Sir John Murray, one of the greatest authorities on oceanography, the bottom is a desert of pitch-black darkness, penetrating cold, and eternal silence. Worms, sea puddings, and coral polyps sluggishly crawl or sway in the almost currentless depths, and only two species of fish, both of them, with much head and little body, have been found deeper than a mile and a quarter down.

FLOOD DANGERS PAST AT WHEELING

River Drops Over Seven Feet During Night and Keeps On Going Down

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 11.—The gravest danger of the present flood stage along the Ohio river appeared to have passed today despite the fact that there was a steady fall of rain last night all along the river from Pittsburgh south.

At 8 a. m. today the river stood at 37 feet, having fallen over seven feet from the flood stage of 44 feet 4 inches at the same hour yesterday. During the later hours of the night the water had fallen six inches an hour and it was not believed last night's rain would cause it to go higher today.

Railroads and street cars resumed traffic today.

FRITZI IS REALLY GETTING A DIVORCE

Fritz Scheff.

Two arts and two temperaments made just four sources of dissension in the romance of John Fox, Jr., author, and Fritz Scheff, actress, and after four years of more or less happiness, the couple has asked the courts to cut loose the bonds that were so heavily upon the two.

The report that Fox and his wife had separated was first heard last fall. It met with immediate denial. But it seems the denial was inspired by a desire to have the divorce proceedings conducted without publicity, for not long after gossip first became busy with their affairs the formal action was brought by Mrs. Fox.

URGES SPOILING FOOD

EDITOR TELLS NEW YORK WAITERS TO MAKE IT UNSAFE TO EAT AT HOTELS IF DEMANDS ARE REFUSED

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The cheap restaurants and "beaneries" heretofore not particularly interested in the hotel cooks' and waiters' strike, hoped today for a rush of the "swell" trade following the public admonition of Joseph J. Ettor, I. W. O. leader, to a mass meeting of the strikers concerning what they should do to the food prepared at the hotels in the event they should be forced to go back to work without getting their demands gratified.

Ettor urged them, if they returned to work under those conditions to "go back with their minds made up that it is the unsafe thing in the world for the capitalist to eat food prepared by members of your union."

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

Introduction
Fellow Citizens of the Senate and Assembly:

A salient feature of government in America is the separation of its departments into executive, legislative and judicial. This partition of power, together with the complicated system of constitutional checks and balances that goes with it, has its merits and its defects. Undoubtedly it promotes independence and responsibility in official action within each department; but it also tends toward enfeeblement of public authority as a whole. Fortunately as to the executive and legislative branches of government in this state the separation is not complete. The governor possesses the veto power. He is also required by the constitution to "communicate to the legislature at each session the condition of the state and recommend such matters to them for their consideration as he may deem expedient." This power to initiate legislation and to defeat it in effect makes the governor a part of the legislature. In view of this similarity in our respective functions and heartily welcoming as I do the tendency manifest in recent years to closer co-operation between these two great departments of government, I approach the performance of my first duty with the utmost deference to the superior judgment of the many who constitute this honorable body and with the sincere hope that the most perfect harmony may always characterize our relations toward each other.

But before passing on to a consideration of the purely public matters that I am about to present to you, permit me to greet you warmly and in the name of all our people to welcome you to the capitol. Affiliated as you are with various political parties, differences of opinion concerning public matters will naturally arise and antagonism of purpose will sometimes appear. But let us never forget that while some may err, all wish to do well and leave honorable records here. Golden opportunities to do so are now spread out before you; and undoubtedly before this session has closed there are many among you who will have rendered high and lasting service to the people of Wisconsin. May your residence here be fruitful. May your official labors be profitable to the state. Assuring you in all sincerity that I am as deeply interested in the success of what you are about to undertake as any one of you I invite your confidence and co-operation to the end that as a result of our joint efforts this great state may continue to grow in wealth, in wisdom and in happiness.

The Legislature of 1911

I have frequently commended the work of the last legislature and congratulated the people of Wisconsin upon the amount, high quality and enduring character of the legislation then enacted. I have felt and still feel that too much cannot be said in its praise. Broad, comprehensive policies were then adopted that have for their object the partial solution at least of problems as old as the human race and as insistent as the requirement of daily bread; the problems of how to secure a closer approximation to fundamental democracy in our civil institutions and to social justice in industrial affairs. One is political and the other economic; one contemplates changes in government, the other improvement in living conditions. Both are equally related to everything that touches the liberty of the citizen.

For the advancement of the first, laws and resolutions were passed concerning corrupt practices in elections, second choice voting at primaries, the initiative, referendum and recall, local self government and the expression of the popular preference for president. These enactments, especially the first two, have already been splendidly justified by experience. In the interest of economic justice broad and far reaching policies were inaugurated relative to la-

DEBATERS PLAN ANNUAL CONTEST

Rivalry Between the High School Societies Spurs Orators to Great Efforts

After a long session of idleness the high school debating societies opened their meetings last night with some rousing good programs. In the secret sessions of the societies it was decided to hold the annual declamatory contest on February 13. This contest is one of the features of the society's school year and is always hotly contested owing to the great friendly rivalry between the two societies.

Webb and Schall won the affirmative side of the recall of federal judges against Witcraft and Andersen in the Lincoln-Douglas. Declarations were given by Davis and President Wagner and several excellent violin solos were rendered by Glen Halik.

A hot debate on the woman suffrage question was the order of the day at the Wendell-Phillips. Goldberg and Crider won the affirmative of the question in opposition to Roche and Jamesson.

At the next meeting of the societies officers for the coming semester will be elected. The societies have had a fairly good half year but it would have been more successful had they been able to hold meetings every week. The by-laws of the societies have been changed so it is now possible for them to hold their weekly meeting but it will not always be on Friday night. This is possible now that the new industrial school is in the building every night of the week.

bor, taxation, public highways, the conservation of our natural resources, life insurance, industrial education and agricultural co-operation. Looked at in retrospective it appears more like the work of a decade than of a single session. Best of all, it is work so well done that none of it will have to be done over again; for we find now that it is all as successful in practice as at any time of enactment it appeared sound in principle. It has already greatly benefited our people. It has unquestionably placed our state foremost among the commonwealths of America in enlightened, progressive legislation. It has therefore immeasurably lightened your labors. Nor does it derogate in the least from the dignity of what you may do, to say that one of your principal duties will be to strengthen and perfect by amendment the principal measures enacted two years ago wherever experience may have shown that improvement is possible. Travelers say that in China it is the practice to construct splendid buildings and never repair them; but when they have tumbled down to build splendidly again. Let us not imitate this oriental custom in dealing with the laws and constitution of our state.

Keeping the Body in Repair

Nature intended that the body should do its own repairing—and it would do so were it not for the fact that most of us live other than a natural life.

Nature didn't intend that we should wear corsets, tight collars or shoes, nor live in badly ventilated and draughty houses, nor eat and drink some of the things that we do, nor ride in street cars when we should walk. The consequence is that the body when it gets out of order must look for outside help to make the necessary repairs.

For weak stomachs and the indigestion or dyspepsia resulting, and the multitude of diseases following therefrom, there is no more adaptable as a curative agent than DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

KAISER FIRE CHIEF

POTSDAM, Jan. 11.—The Kaiser assumed a brand new role, that of fire chief, when a sudden blaze today for a time threatened the destruction of a part of the Neuen palace.

When the flames were discovered, the war lord immediately took command of the palace fire brigade, which was reinforced by the Potsdam fire department.

Under his guidance the firemen kept the blaze confined to two rooms. Their work done, the firemen were thanked by the kaiser and treated to wine from the imperial cellars.

TO HUNT SVERDRUP

CHRISTIANA, Jan. 11.—Hasty preparations were begun today to send a relief expedition to search for Otto Sverdrup, the Arctic explorer and big game hunter, who with a party of sixteen, is believed to be lost in Greenland. The Sverdrup company set out from here last March in a motor vessel to hunt walrus in northern Greenland. Nothing has been heard from them.

JAILED FOR DOG TAX

DENVER, Col., Jan. 11.—Declaring he would rather go to jail than pay a dog tax, Attorney Duncan McPhail, who for several months has been in litigation because of his dog Daisy, during which time the municipal, county and supreme courts have taken a hand in the case, has voluntarily entered upon a term in a cell in the county jail.

ATTEND THE HOME
BEAUTIFUL LECTURES

We call attention to an article which appears in this number of The Tribune announcing the dates of the "Home Beautiful" illustrated discussion to be given at the La Crosse Theater next week under the auspices of the National Cash Register Co.

We are frank to say that in our opinion this work is not going forward for the purpose of advertising
the company's private business. Mr.
A.W. Patterson, president of the company, is a man of wealth and originality, and has always interested himself in social problems. It was his pride to make Dayton, the home of the National Cash Register, a beautiful city, and that he achieved his purpose all who travel know. But Mr.
Patterson's ambition did not end with that achievement. It had been growing upon him, and we believe that today could he make all the world as beautiful as Dayton he would esteem
it a greater triumph than his stupendous business success.

Mr. Patterson's missionary work, pursued through the medium of these illustrated lectures, is conducted with scholarly efficiency that has given it
the endorsement of other of the great minds working to the same ends, and it is of interest in this community that Mr. Joseph M. Hixon, president of the La Crosse Park commission, has publicly commended the enterprise.

As one example of thousands that indicate how the lectures are being received in other cities we quote the following editorial paragraph from
the Milwaukee Free Press:

"In scope and appeal to widely diversified interests, pictures being shown this week in the Auditorium
by The National Cash Register company, of Dayton, Ohio, may be classed among the finest free exhibitions ever seen in Milwaukee."

A CONFESSION OF
A GUILTY CONSCIENCE

The entire world is against the United States on the latter's position in the Panama Canal controversy.
This is the reason, says Representative Mann of Illinois, republican floor leader of the house, why we cannot accede to arbitration.

What an exceedingly honorable position for a great nation to take. We will be adjudged wrong—therefore we will not arbitrate. That is the situation our repudiation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty forces on us. We have quibbled sufficiently on the treaty to make part of our countrymen believe we are in the right, but our quibbling won't pass with the world at large. And we know it so well that we dare not trust the question to an international tribunal.

After all our prating about peace,
this is a humiliating admission to be forced to make. It is pretty certain to cause the world to think that we have been insincere in the sermonizing on arbitration in which we have indulged. Because we are afraid we would lose we must, according to Mr. Mann and the school he represents, refuse to arbitrate. Presumably, then, we would submit to an international tribunal only if we could be assured we could win.

The truth is—and this truth is more generally realized than it was a few months ago—that we were wrong when we attempted, against the plain obligations of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, to give a subsidy to American coastwise shipping by exempting it from tolls. Some say in answer to this, "It is our canal. What has Great Britain to do with it?"

When the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was signed we acknowledged that Great Britain had something to do with it.
For we pledged to give no special favors to any one, which of course included ourselves. Great Britain surrendered certain rights, very embarrassing to us, guaranteed under the previous Clayton-Bulwer treaty. In other words, we did not, as so many seem to think, give something for nothing when we made our promise.

We received definite value in return.
Now it is our duty to keep our word. This can be done by repealing the exemption clause of the canal bill.

TRIBUNE TO PUBLISH
THE PICKETT LETTERS

Under the secrecy-preserving caption of "The Love Letters of a Confederate General," a remarkable series of communications sent by a soldier to his beloved, under the most dangerous and desperate circumstances—letters written from the thick of war, ringing of love, and of valor has been running in the Pictorial Review.

The letters have stirred up a controversy that has run with particular zest through the Southern States, and now that the last of them is about to be printed, the woman to whom they are written has consented that the anonymity be destroyed. They were written by Gen. George Pickett to the girl who was first Lasalle Corbell, afterward Mrs. Pickett.

By courtesy of the Pictorial Review The Tribune is privileged to publish such of the Pickett letters, or excerpts from them as seem most highly charged with interest, and these publications will henceforth be a feature of the church page of the Saturday edition, beginning with this issue.

MOVING PICTURES
AND INTemperance

In Pottsville, Pa., only a few days
in which applications for new liquor licenses can be filed remain, but there are more than a hundred saloonkeepers who have made no move to secure the necessary authority to open their places next year. The greater number of these have notified the county clerk that they are going out of business.

The interesting part of the situation is the explanation given. These saloonkeepers say that the motion picture theaters established in Pottsville within the last year or so are responsible for the loss of their trade.
Formerly the saloons were the hang-outs, the places of rendezvous and the "poor man's clubs" of the town.

Now the motion picture houses have usurped these functions. When men have time to spare they drop into a nickelodeon, either singly or in company, and see a show. When they have an appointment they fix the theater as the place of meeting. In addition, they find an added leisure
by taking their wives and children to the cheap amusement.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE
IN TOPIC FORM

In this number of The Tribune we publish one section of Governor Mc-Govern's message. We shall continue each day to print a portion of the message completely covering one of the various suggestions the message contains. The message is a highly important document, well considered, and showing a scholarly understanding of the various progressive measures which it urges. It is so voluminous that few of our readers would find time to read and digest
it were it to appear in a single issue,
and a newspaper is easily lost or destroyed. The message is important, and should have the careful contemplation of every Wisconsin voter;
therefore we urge The Tribune readers to turn each day to the heading
"The Governor's Message," and to read that day's contribution to the discussion of those vital problems
the solution of which will occupy the state legislature during its present session.

TAKE THE BIBLE
TO THE FIRESIDE

Beginning today The Tribune will publish daily a little feature which we believe to be worth much more space than it will take. It consists of a text from the Bible and a sermon derived from it, based on an item of current news. The average is only fifty words, so that the busiest may find time to read. The preacher is Dr. L. C. Clarke, whose power of epigram is well known. He originated this daily newspaper feature with the idea that through it people would learn to take the Bible
to the fireside.

STANDPAT DEMOCRATS
STILL IN THE SADDLE

The appearance in the speakership fight of a democratic aspirant of tory leanings, in opposition to Mr. Kneen, shows that the standpat democrats propose to continue their quarrel with the Wilson majority enrolled in the November election record. We are rather glad of it. Open hostility is less objectionable than secret obstruction. The one bad feature of the incident is found in the circumstance that the reactionary candidate polled a majority of the democratic vote in the assembly, indicating that they may control the democratic organization. However, we expect Mr.
Kneen and his associates will not neglect the opportunity to employ the agency used by Bryan and Wilson at Baltimore to whip the stand-patters into line—the agency of public opinion.

The Women's Political union will have tea parties throughout the winter. At least one tea party in this country resulted in representation in government.

Sun Yat Sen, the famous Chinese statesman, receives $1,000 a day

may soon hear rumors of a new Chinese loan.

A prominent physician says when we think we have a cold we are just recovering from one. This thought is comforting if it is a bit obtuse.

It has been discovered that the next vice president chews tobacco. A mistake has been made. He should be in the Supreme court.

Roger Bresnahan has declined an offer of $1,000 a week to appear in vaudeville. A baseball star cannot afford to be a piker.

Talking machine needles were placed in the bomb thrown at Viceroy Hardinge at Delhi, probably to make it heard.

It is said Mr. Wilson will listen to Bryan. He is one of the few who can do that without buying lecture tickets.

Just when things begin to settle down Harry Shaw makes another attempt to get out of Matteawan.

A Devotee of Dress
Titta Ruffo, the new baritone, praised in Philadelphia the elegance
of the American woman.

"At one of your Rittenhouse Square houses," he said, "I complimented a husband on the elegance of his wife. He laughed and replied:
"Yes, my wife is indeed a devotee of fashion. I'm sure if she were to die she'd never consent to be an angel unless they'd let her wear a robe
with a draped skirt."

Why Do Scotsmen Succeed?
"Johnny, dear," said the visitor.
John McTurk turned around while the family cat rescued her tail from his grubby fist.

"Now that you are going to school," continued the visitor, "I want to ask you a little question.
How many marbles would you get if I gave you twenty, to be divided between you and Andrew MacDonald?"

Johnny thoughtfully rubbed the point of his nose where the cat had scratched him.

"I dinna ken," he said.

"Come, come," said his elder.
"How's that?"

"Well, ma'am," said Johnny, "ye see it's a' according. If ye gie me them when we're both here, we'd hae ten apiece. If Andrew was here and I wasna, I'd only hae about five. But if I were to get them when Andrew wasna here I dinna ken whether he'
hae any at a'."—London Tit-Bits.

Economy in the Country
"The late James Molloy," said a music publisher, "wrote humorous songs now and then, but it is as the author of 'Love's Old Sweet Song,' that he will be remembered.

"Yes his humor was good, too—bright, clean and pure. He liked to make fun of people who lived in the country. I once heard him say in London to a Devon man:

"Why do you live in the country,
anyhow?"

"So as to save money," was the reply.

"Are vegetables and milk and meat cheaper?"

"They are, on the contrary,
slightly dearer."

"How do you save, then?"

"No 'Salome' opera, $50 a year.
No restaurant dinners, $100 a year.
No theater, $100 a year. No taxicab fares, $50 a year. No distractions of any kind, $75 a year."

"Look here," said Mr. Molloy,
"could not you save money if you
died?"—Washington Star.

It Brings Them Down
Courtland Field Bishop, who is an expert in airshipmanship in all its branches, smiled at a dinner in Lenox over Grahame White's contemplated trans-Atlantic flight by hydro-aeroplane.

"The mere discussion of such a flight," he said, "make the young lady's joke about flying seem true and serious."

"I can't understand the attraction of flying," an elderly man said to this young lady.

"She answered, smiling demurely:
"Don't you think it must be the attraction of gravitation?"

A Regretful Waiter
In a restaurant that strives to inculcate good manners, a man who admitted that he was rather slow on etiquette, but was trying to learn, besought the waiter to assist in the reformation.

"My chief trouble," said he, "is splashing. I used to splash like anything. But by degrees I am curing myself. Know how? Well, sir, I have made it a rule to cover all the spots I make on the tablecloth with silver money—nickels, dimes, quarters, halves—whatever it takes to cover them, and then give the money away. As I am not a rich man, that nearly broke me and I began to reform."

The waiter nodded encouragingly and said he was glad to hear it. The man ate a substantial meal. When he had finished, the cloth was disfigured with only one small coffee stain which a dime easily covered. He handed the dime to the waiter.

"My fines," he said, "constitutes my tips."

Unhappily the waiter watched him depart.

"How wish," he sighed, "that I had known him in his sloppy days."

Quips and Cranks
and Wanton Wiles

That Extra Touch
Has it been your lot to meet,
One who's gracious, kind and
sweet,
One who greets you on the street
With a smile?
Have you found a friend, unpressed
Giving all at love's behest,
And who goes without request
One more mile?
Do you give that extra touch,
Prove a favor not as such,
But a pleasure wished for, much,
And worth while?
Do you add sweet grace and charm,
Lend refusals soothing balm,
Go in spirit, arm and arm,
One more mile?
'Tis the little acts, my friend,
Simple acts which oftentimes blend
Happiness with deeds and lend Grace and style;
Wealth and fame are poor beside
Such a charm, and vain is pride,
Love will ever prompt and guide
One more mile.

THE
OF CAPTAIN
KETTLE

By C. J. Catellie Hynde, Copyright The Fobbe-Merill Co.

Captain Kettle had come to believe in his own instincts, and openly and frankly he had mistrusted this Moor or Berber, or whatever he was, with the English education, ever since he had seen him for the first time ride up along the beach,
and sit on a horse that straddled
out its legs as though it were standing to be photographed in a show ring.

He slid down a rope into the boat and waited for Mr. McTodd.
That expert reappeared on the surface from time to time, took in air supplies, kicked up his heels, and disappeared to make further explorations.

Finally he swam with a vigorous side-stroke back to the boat, jerked himself up to her stern, and stepped inboard.

"Ye may get back home, Captain," said he, "reaching for his clothes, 'as fast as ye like. The survey of the sea floor's clearly mapped in my head, and I may say the contours are well, are as ye surmised—or worse. Gosh, and they said in the school-books that I was brought up on in Ballindrogher that it's to ants we're to look up as the most industrious animals on the face of the globe. Well, after tonight's experience, I shall just have to write a postscript. It's prodigious the work these pagans must have put in. How's the tide?"

"An hour past flood."

"Well, there's a bank of stone rubble down there wide enough to carry a railroad. It's a matter of twelve feet down below the water surface now, and I should say is just nicely covered at the bottom of the ebb. But it runs up to the rock ahead, and to the shoal water
astern, and I guess friend Bergash and his clansmen have got the Norman Towers fixed here as firmly as if they'd got her bolted down into the bed-plate of Africa and lock-nuttled through to China below."

CHAPTER XIX.
Violet Forces the Pace.
Nervousness in Mr. Trethewey, the mate of the Wanganoo, found outward expression in his upper lip and nose. Always when spoken to he answered with a twitch of these organs, and even when stared at his nose, which was of a fine Roman mold, would respond, in spite of all its wearer's most strenuous efforts to appear unconcerned. He was fully aware of his failing and utterly impotent to cure it; and if ever a man carried a daily cross in the sight of all men, Trethewey wore his in the middle of his face.

It was this officer, then, who met his fellow officers of the reconnoitering party at the Wanganoo's gangway, and for a while he was so violently contorted by his complaint that speech was altogether beyond him.

There were moments when Captain Kettle, who had small enough patience with this sort of thing, deliberately barked at the man until he straightened his lip and spoke. But on this particular occasion he saw there was news and dreaded what it might be. He let his mate down as lightly as he knew how. He took the cigar from his lips, said quietly, "Yes, Mr. Trethewey," and waited. With a supreme effort, he did not even stare at the man, but swung his eyes to the lagoon, which was now flecked with phosphorescence where the tiny breakers were whipped up by the land breeze, and waited.

"They're gone," said the mate,
when at length he had thawed out sufficiently to speak.

"Who have gone?"

The junior officer was stricken with another spasm worse than the first, and Captain Kettle noted that practically the whole of both watches were stowed away in the shadows on deck, keenly listening.

"Now then, Mr. Trethewey, get on, man, get on. Who have gone?"

"The caboodle of them," the mate blurted. "O-O-Owner, sister, and decorative maid. If only you wouldn't bustle a man so, sir, I could tell you all right. That dark chap with the white-man frills has gone with them. Saint, I think you call him; but as nobody's introduced me to him, I can't ping-ping-ping-ping say. I'm not the sort of officer who sucks information about passengers' guests out of the steward, and I tried to stop 'em, and could not; and if you think my conduct's unsatisfactory, sir, you may sign me off at the next port we touch
at and I'll not com-ping-ping-ping-plain."

"But, Great James, man, where have they gone?"

"On a cir-circular tour round Africa, for anything I know. I did ask miss. I-I-I said I hoped it would not rain, and they'd find the roads
good, and where were they going?
But she ping-ping wouldn't hear me. Then I asked Sir George, and he told me straight enough to mind my own—ping—bally business. As for that stuck-up maid—"

"If you don't take care of your language," said Kettle furiously,
"I'll fling you overboard, you blooming lump of incompetence! I leave you in charge of a steamboat at anchor for a matter of three hours, and as soon as my back is turned you capsize every arrangement I have made."

This was obviously unfair, and the mate, who was in reality a young man of spirit, had every intention of entering a vigorous protest; but his infirmity descended on him with renewed vigor, and left him doubly tongue-tied and defenseless under his superior officer's tornado of words.

"Go to your room, sir!" Kettle finished up furiously. "Where's Mr.

Forster?"

"Second mate's turned in, sir," a voice from the darkness volunteered, and without words Captain Kettle walked off briskly below to the officers' quarters under the break of the poop.

The fat old second mate was either fast asleep, or was shamming to be in that condition. Kettle, however, shook him without qualms.

"Wake," he snapped. And when the second mate, who a stupid man, and prided himself on his stupidity, opened one eye only, and that with extreme care, Captain Kettle took two hands to him, and shook him
with such fine vigor that there could be no doubt about sleep fleeing before such an onslaught.

A Pointed Question
Several of them were traveling together in a smoking carriage from Manchester to Glasgow and the conversation turned round to the merits and demerits of various ways of preserving health.

One stout, florid man held forth
with great eloquence on the subject.

"Look at me!" he said. "Never a day's sickness in my life, and all due to simple food! Why, gentlemen," he continued, "from the age of 20 to that of 40 I lived an absolutely simple, regular life—no effeminate delicacies, no late hours, no extravagances.

"Every day, in fact, summer and winter, I was in bed regularly at 9 o'clock and up again at 5 in the morning. I worked from 8 to 1, then had dinner—a plain dinner, mark my words; after that an hour's exercise;
then—"

"Excuse me, sir," interrupted the facetious stranger in the corner, "but what were you in for?"—London Answers.

Precocious Job
"Why doesn't the baby talk?" inquired the curious little sister.

"He can't talk yet; small babies never do."

"Oh, yes, they do," was the quick answer. "Job did. Nurse read to me out of the Bible how Job cursed
the day he was born."

"SUCCESS COMES FROM DIGGING," SAYS PASTOR AS HE LEADS FLOCK TO BASEMENT WHERE THEY TOIL WITH PICK AND SHOVEL

Busy congregation in basement of Cleves, O., Methodist church.

Because there are no funds to make needed improvements at the Methodist church in Cleves, O., which is a suburb of Cincinnati, the whole congregation and the minister are taking turns at the pick and shovel and excavating under the church for a basement assembly room where a branch of the Y. M. C. A. will have its headquarters. High school girls of wealthy parents who live in the little suburb are digging with picks and shovels same as men just for the novelty of the thing and to say that they helped do the work.

"Success comes from digging," says the pastor. He is Rev. E. R. Waring and he has been leading the Cleves flock for three years.

ASKS THREE WARSHIPS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Further need for three battleships and a much larger navy all around was urged by Secretary of the Navy Meyer before the house naval committee today. He made the point that on the completion of the Pearl Harbor naval station, Hawaii, the United States would leave practically unprotected in the Pacific what was intended to be the most powerful naval station in the world.

UNKNOWN IS FOUND HANGING TO TRAIN

Rides from West Salem on Outside of Olympia Vestibule; Found by the Conductor

An unknown man had a narrow escape this morning at about six o'clock, when he boarded the vestibule of the Olympia flyer, train No. 15, of the Milwaukee railroad, at Salem.

The flyer had pulled out of the depot, and was making good headway when a man rushed out of the depot. When he saw the flyer had been closed, he dropped his grip and caught on near a vestibule, hanging on to the hand grips, with his feet on the step. He rode in this position for about four miles, the train going at the rate of forty miles an hour.

Conductor Holbrook, who was in charge of the train, found him in a nearly frozen condition and opened the door, letting him in. The man would not give his name or address and disappeared at North La Crosse, when the train stopped. It is thought that he was from West Salem.

Good Object Lesson.

The pupils of a Cleveland (Ohio) school have taken part in a dramatic sketch before the moving picture camera, and their youthful figures and the lesson they teach will soon be known throughout the land. For it is a lesson that they are teaching—the lesson of the importance of the care of the teeth.

For Shoe Lace Tips.

The tips of shoe laces sometimes come off quite good laces. In this case they may be replaced with impromptu tags of sealing wax. Cut the tag, smear it over with sealing wax, then press it to a point while the wax is still warm.

Blackening Aluminum.

To blacken aluminum alloys, states the Electrical Review, immerse the article in a boiling hot solution of caustic soda of 30 per cent. strength for a few seconds; wash off the excess of caustic, dry in sawdust and polish with a plumbagoed brush.

TO NOLLE PROSSE CONSPIRACY CASE?

District Attorney Refuses to Deny He Will Drop Indictment Against Wool Trust Head

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—District Attorney Pelletier of Suffolk county refused to deny a widely circulated report that steps are being taken to have nolle prossed the conspiracy indictments against William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, Frederick Atteaux, head of a mill supply company, and Dennis K. Collins, a Cambridge dog fancier. The multi-millionaire woolen company head and the others are charged with conspiring to cause dynamite to be sent to Lawrence during last winter's great textile strike, to discredit the cause of the strikers.

John Breen, while school commissioner of Lawrence, was convicted and fined $500 for planting dynamite. Wood and Atteaux are now at liberty on $5,000 cash bail.

SAVES FARMER FROM CONFIDENCE GAME

George Huff, a farmer residing near Chaseburg, was saved from being robbed last night in the Post restaurant on Third street by the proprietor, W. G. Dickson.

Mr. Huff had been in the habit of coming into town frequently to have a "good time with the boys." Yesterday he had imbibed a little too freely, and was spending his money right and left. A young man, unidentified, had followed him, taking advantage of Huff's generosity. They had several rounds, and finally ended up in the Post restaurant, to satisfy their hunger.

While in the restaurant, Dickson noticed the young man trying to extract a wallet from Huff's pocket. He at once took the matter in hand and ordered the man from the place. Fearing that he might meet Huff again, Dickson took his money, forty-five dollars, and gave him a receipt. Huff called this morning for his money. He is seventy-eight years of age.

When a man gets a cable dispatch, he wants to pull it out of his pocket with show carelessness like a $1,000 bill.

ALARMING PNEUMONIA DEATH RATE IS WARNING AGAINST NEGLECT OF COLDS

More Than Half the Number of Cases Result Fatally

Figures that have just been compiled by experts show that almost half the number of pneumonia cases end in death. This is the pneumonia season, and neglect of colds is in most cases the origin of the disease. When you take "cough balsams" or "syrups" containing deadly drugs that weaken the body, you are inviting pneumonia. Without these drugs, Father John's Medicine cures colds and prevents pneumonia. Composed of pure food elements which nourish and build up the body, Father John's Medicine gives strength to ward off the disease. It is not a patent medicine, but a physician's prescription: 50 years in use. Free from alcohol or dangerous drugs.

If you have any difficulty in getting Father John's Medicine from your druggist write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

M'GRAW OPPOSES
WOMEN MAGNATES

Manager of New York
Giants Says Fair Sex
Have No Place in Baseball

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 11.—"Any woman who attempts to dictate the policy of a baseball club is flirting with serious trouble," said John J. McGraw of the New York Giants, yesterday, in discussing the Bresnahan case and its outcome.

"Professional baseball is so complicated that it is difficult for any one, much less a woman, to get the ins and outs of it and know the correct way to manage a club. It is bad enough for a man to be mixed up in this kind of work, for he is always in trouble. It is no work for a woman.

"But when it comes to dictating the policy of a club, passing on trades, sales and the drafting of the players—well, no woman is qualified for the work. Women have their spheres, but they have not reached the stage yet where they are competent to manage a club.

"Look over the history of the big leagues and study it and you will find that certain clubs are always in the first division berths. Why is this? Simply because the national game is one of the hardest propositions in the world.

"Smart men have spent their lives in trying to manage teams and many have acknowledged that they are failures in this pursuit. Some people have charged me with ingratitude toward men who have worked hard for me, but they forget an important fact, and that is that what you are able to do today and not what you have done in the past counts in baseball as in every other business."

GOLF ASSOCIATION
TO HOLD MEETING

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The annual meeting of the United States Golf association will be held tonight at Sherry's. After the banquet, officers for next year will be elected. The report of the possibility of a serious discussion over the power of the nominating committee to perpetuate itself was not taken seriously by members today. No opposition ticket has as yet been put into the field.

AL PALZER MAY
FIGHT JOHNSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Al Palzer, who was beaten on New Year's day by Luther McCarty, will probably box Jack Johnson in Paris on Grand Prix night, June 22. Tom O'Rourke, Palzer's manager, has already signed for his man. Al Lippe, who is now in Paris, was authorized to make the match and is now communicating with Johnson. Reports from Chicago that Johnson is training are believed here to indicate that he might take on the match if he can get out of his legal battle.

M'CARTY TO GIVE
WIFE $100 A MONTH

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—Luther McCarty arranged today to provide $100 a month for his wife, and he began a bank account for his little girl, to which he will add gradually until the child is old enough to use it for an education. McCarty probably will suggest to his wife that she settle herself in her home town in comfortable quarters and care for the baby while he travels and makes all the money he can, while the going is good.

SHERIFFS ANNEX
JOHNSON'S AUTO

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Jack Johnson figured in legal proceedings again when deputy sheriffs seized his automobile, a safe and the fixtures of the defunct "Cafe de Champion" to satisfy a judgment of $5,621 held against him by a brewery.

THOUGH RICH THEY
STICK TO CABIN

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn., Jan. 11.—Mrs. Peter Yantz, who has lived for twenty years with her husband in a little old log cabin near North Redwood, a village a few miles from here, has just been notified that she has inherited $50,000 from an only sister, who died recently in Germany. But Mrs. Yantz told the attorney that carried the notification to her that the legacy made no difference and that she guessed "me and my old man" would continue to live in the old log cabin.

Mrs. Yantz is 80 years old and her husband is about the same age.

JESS WILLARD TO MEET UNKNOWN

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Jess Willard and Frank Bowers of St. Charles, Ontario, have signed articles to meet in a ten round bout at Fort Wayne, Ind., January 22. Bowers is a giant newcomer about whom nothing is known except that he trained with Jim Flynn and has a terrible punch.

HAT PIN PIERCES EYE

CHIPPewa FALLS, Wis., Jan. 11.—While singing in a choir Miss Gladys Steese felt a sharp pain in her eye as a hatpin in another singer's hat pierced the optic. She may lose the sight of her eye.

JAP LOSES BY A CLOSE MARGIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Billiard enthusiasts are today convinced that Koji Yamada can play brilliant billiards. After four nights of mediocre work he came back last night in the last round of his 2,000 point 18.2 match with George F. Slosson and played one of the best games ever seen here.

He failed to overcome Slosson's lead, however, and the latter ran his 400 points, winning the match 2,000 to 1,920. The score of last night's block was 722 to 400 in Yamada's favor.

FRANK CHANCE IS
AFTER SCHOOL BOY

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Anthony Carlo, a high school lad here, is the first man Frank Chance is after for his Yankee pitching staff. Before he left here last night he began negotiations to get Carlo, who now belongs to the Newark club. Carlo made a brilliant record here and has been sought by several big league teams. Chance also announced the possibility that he will get back into the game, provided he feels strong enough, and Hal Chase can play second.

KENOSHA, Wis., Jan. 11.—Mayor Head of Kenosha, today rudely shattered the rosy dreams of Chicago and Milwaukee fight fans. Asked if he would allow the boxing lid to be tilted, the executive said: "Nothing doing," just like that. "This town is off the fight map."

NON-STOP AUTO
RACE SUGGESTED

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Members of the Chicago Automobile club are considering plans for a non-stop reliability run next summer between Chicago and Boston by way of New York. The contest committee is looking over the route and sounding members on their willingness to enter. It is planned to make the run at the end of June.

COLUMBIA'S FIVE
LOSE TO TIGERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Columbia's chances for the championship in basketball, which she held continuously for five years, were considered meagre today. Last night the Blue and White went down to defeat to the Princeton quintet for the first time in thirteen years by the score of 35 to 24.

TANBERG RECOVERING

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 11.—It was reported at the Madison General hospital today that Alvin Tandberg had survived the critical period of his illness and that he is considered convalescent. Tandberg has pneumonia.

CHICAGO QUINTET
LOSES CLOSE GAME

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—University of Chicago basketball rooters were not disheartened today over the defeat of their basketball team last night by the Armour Square team with a score of 21 to 19. They figure that the absence of Payne and Norgren, two of the regulars, was responsible. The Maroon substitutes were unable to stop the rushes of their strong opponents.

YALE TO PICK CAPTAIN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 11.—Captain Percy Wendell, of the 1912 football team at Harvard, said today he would call a meeting of the men who played in the Yale games the first of next week for the purpose of electing next season's captain. There is much speculation about which of the two tackles, Storer or Hitchcock, will be elected.

BOY KILLED IN PLAY
OWATONNA, Minn., Jan. 11.—In a childish game of warfare Friday morning, little Harry Kruska, aged 9, loaded an old army rifle, sought his older brother John, aged 12, behind the woodshed, leveled the musket, pulled trigger and killed him instantly. The weapon was supposed to have been too aged for use except in play.
